PROJECTS

MapMyWalk

Live Site | Github

A web application that uses Javascript, Ruby on Rails and React to create a clone of Under Armor's website, MapMyRun

- Thoroughly used Google Maps API to execute the functionality of creating routes and retrieving information out from the Google Map API.
- Precisely followed the original website to demonstrate a high understanding of CSS.
- Reliably used Ruby on Rails to construct the backend for clean database structure.

Vital-DB

Live Site | Github

Worked on a team of 4 to create a demonstrative web application that uses ReCharts API to display personal health statistics

- Proficiently worked as the flex team member to support any team member to keep everyone on the same pacing.
- Exhaustively used ReCharts API to display a polished graph overlay with easy to understand information.
- Cooperatively communicated with other 3 members to swiftly target what areas needed assistance and promptly worked to achieve that goal.

Pixel Beat

Live Site | Github

A pixel-themed music game made with pure vanilla Javascript that utilizes in-game physics and separate audio files to recreate songs

- Effectively showed a thorough understanding of Javascript and Canvas to show innovation and expressiveness.
- Creatively structured the website for a polished pixel-theme that is pleasing to the eye.
- Diligently hand-drew all of the animations in the game for maximum control over the user experience of the project.
